

USE AT YOUR OWN RISK

Jones Peak

3,375'

Location: Sierra Madre City
Maps: AAA San Gabriel Valley
Topo: Mt. Wilson 7.5

Primary Route: 3.3 miles o/w, 2175' gain

Driving Instruction:

From Fwy. I-210 in Sierra Madre take the Baldwin Ave. off ramp north to Grandview Ave. Turn left and go to Grove St. and turn right to Bailey Canyon Park. Park in the parking lot. No fee. Check for gate closure time!

Hiking Instructions:

From the parking lot follow a dirt path West through the picnic area through the gate in the fence to a paved service road and turn right/North and follow it up the left side of the canyon past the debris basin on the right. The road ends, but continue on the trail as it switchbacks up Bailey Canyon. A short side trail leads to Bailey Falls. Soon you come to the remains of an abandoned stone cabin just off the trail on the left by a stream, a good lunch stop at the half-way point. Stay on the trail and continue up the side of the mountain to a saddle, North of the peak. Here you turn right (South) up a slope to the summit.

Return either the way you came, or try the loop hike: go down to the saddle and continue ¼ mile (North) uphill. There the left trail leads to the Mt. Wilson Toll Road, but take the right trail which switchbacks steeply downhill meeting the old Mt. Wilson Trail just before the Heliport, below Orchard Camp. Here turn right and follow the Mt. Wilson Trail back to the TH. Either have a car shuttle, or walk the short distance (0.7 miles on Carter Ave.) to Bailey Canyon Park.

Notes:

This new Connector Trail was built in 2001 by the City of Sierra Madre. It is 0.7 miles long with 700 ft loss. The loop hike is 7.5 miles round trip, plus the walk to the Park, if your car is parked there.

The peak is named after a former mayor of Sierra Madre.

From the trail you see the Passionist Fathers Monastery.

Original: Jack Adsit 1998, rev. 2004